Bookmarks is Britain's biggest socialist bookshop – and we will be moving lock, stock and barrel to Marxism 2010 for the whole of the event.

Don't miss the opportunity to browse our fantastic selection covering Marxist ideas, black struggle, Labour history, women's liberation, Palestine, radical science, culture and much more. You can find us in two rooms located just off the student union bar in the basement of the Institute of Education throughout the event.

Marxism CDs

Don't miss a thing with our Marxism CDs. All the meetings at Marxism 2010 will be recorded and available to buy, often within hours, for just £3 each.

Volunteer

Are you going to the Durham Miners Gala on 10 July? We have a large bookstall there but need as many people as possible to sell pamphlets and books during this huge day out. If anyone unemployed wants to come from Sheffield or Leeds we will cover travel and expenses.

If you're planning to go to Tolpuddle Festival and would like to help at the Bookmarks marquee please get in touch: sarah@bookmarks.uk.com

Judith Orr, Riaz Ahmed, John Kelly & a BA cabin crew worker

Students join striking lecturers at Sussex University.

OPENING RALLY
Capitalism, crisis & resistance
7pm, Friends Meeting House, Main Hall

We live in a world of injustice, oppression and exploitation. Today the global crisis dominates politics and sharpens capitalism's barbarity. The bosses, bankers and politicians are determined to make workers pay the price, while increased competitive tensions between states heighten the risk of conflict. But ordinary people across the globe are fighting back and demanding justice.

Judith Orr will join Pakistani socialist Riaz Ahmed and a British Airways cabin crew striker to kick off this year's Marxism, with very special guest John Kelly.

John has been part of the families' campaign for justice since his 17 year old brother Michael Kelly was killed on Bloody Sunday in Derry in 1972.

ARTS & ENTS	I Got A Home in Barack, Sunday 9pm, Jeffery Hall The highly acclaimed Tayo Aluko, writer and performer of the award-winning Call Mr Robeson , returns to Marxism with Home in Barack . It is a musically illustrated talk exploring African history, Africans' resistance to white domination over the centuries, and the symbolic				triumph of Barack Obama's election to the White House. Taking in a history of struggle, religion and philosophy, the piece concludes that the fight for equality, peace and justice is a tradition to be embraced and continued by all people of African descent in the struggle against oppression.		Poetry for Palestine, Sunday 9pm, RNH Edward VII Following Israel's recent attack on the aid flotilla, there has been a surge of solidarity with the Palestinian people. Tonight we extend that solidarity to the cultural sphere with an evening of poetry and spoken word from Marxism regular Michael Rosen, Iraqi rapper Lowkey, PCS activist Zita Holbourne and actor Sam West, who will be speaking earlier in the evening on the great Palestinian poet Mahmoud Darwish.				50 years of the International Socialism journal, Sunday 11.45am, ULU 3E To celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of the ISJ, longstanding contributor Ian Birchall and deputy editor Jonny Jones will host a discussion on the journal's origins, history and future. It will be followed by a practical discussion about the journal's development. New & potential contributors are welcome.
